Since its founding in Duluth, Minnesota in 1966 by Lauren Larsen, LHB has mastered the balance between the disciplines of engineering and architecture, combining aesthetics with utility. Initially founded as a structural engineering firm, LHB expanded over the course of the past 50 years to include industry leading services in civil, mechanical and electrical engineering, as well as bringing in landscape architects, interior designers and surveyors. LHB's first project involved the Duluth Arena, which is now the Duluth Entertainment and Convention Center over 50 years ago.

Today, LHB is a full-service firm of leaders with a deep understanding of the industries they work with, and is a leading consulting engineer in the transportation industry. You can learn more about the history of this great Minnesota success story at: <http://lhbcorp.com/who-we-are/our-history/>
